

Jack: The Robot

Hi, my name is Lucy, and I'm 9 years old, I'm from 4th grade.
Today, my teacher asked us to participate in a group challenge. My friends Alex, Alisson, Rebecca, Matteo and I decided to do it together.

The teacher explained that we needed to make toys from recycled materials. We stayed excited because we had the idea of making a robot. After school, we thought about meeting at the twins' house, Alex and Alisson, to start the work.

Before the meeting, we went to our houses to get the robot's materials; after that, we went to the twins' house.

We used buttons for the EYES and a milk carton for the BODY. We drew a MOUTH. We used a pompom for the NOSE, a cardboard roll for the LEGS, a lid for the EARS and FEET, many straws for the ARMS, and some wire for the HAIR.

The robot looked pretty! But Matteo wasn't doing anything. The others and I were sad because everyone was working hard.

When Matteo went to the bathroom, we decided to talk with him about the problem he was causing.

When he came back, Rebecca said:

“Matteo, we are not happy with your work. We would like your help!”
He went out feeling angry. Crying, he ran to the bathroom.

The twins' mother listened to someone crying and decided to see what was happening. When she came to the bathroom, she knocked on the door and asked him to open it. Matteo was really sad with us.

The twins' mother explained to Matteo that the work was group work and he needed help. He understood and decided to help us.

We called the robot Jack, and he was ready. It was wonderful, and everyone loved it. We said goodbye to each other, and everyone left.

The other day, we showed the robot to the teacher. She liked it and said we were creative in making a robot. So, she showed the robot to the class and said that our grade was 10. We were very happy!

BIOGRAPHY

We are 7th A, and we loved to make this fantastic book. Everybody in our class worked hard on this project.

It was great to work as a team. We were able to discover different talents in each of our colleagues. We could see which ideas could come together and create a fantastic work.

We hope that soon we will have a new project to do.

CREDITS TO

The outlining and writing team: Arthur, Dana, Julia, Leticia, Sarah, and Sofia.

The design and illustration team: Maria Julia, Lara, Maria Clara, Sarah, and Julia Rocha.

The editing and proofreading team: Dana, Maria Clara Lessa, Lauro, Arthur, Gabriel, and Sarah.

The podcast and audiobook team: Julia, Leticia, Lara, Maria Julia and Sofia.

The advertising and marketing team: Bruna, Maria Luiza, Gabriel, Luana, Maria Julia Fortes, Sophia and Maria Eduarda.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to thank all the students involved in this project. Each one proved their best and helped to put together this incredible book, and of course, we want to thank our teacher, who always supported us on this journey. Thank you, teacher Luciana Firmiano.

Lucy and her friends had a challenge proposed by their teacher. They needed to make a recyclable toy and had the brilliant idea of making a robot.

They took materials from their houses that they would no longer use. There was a conflict between them during the toy preparation, but the work turned out amazing in the end.

They presented it to the teacher, and she loved it, and they got an extraordinary grade.

