ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Thanks to our little readers for reading our book and to our coordinators for offering us this incredible experience of writing a book.

The lion is the king of the savanna. Lions live 8 to 10 years. Male lions have manes. They have it to look bigger. Lions are predators. They hunt medium and large animals like zebras and antelopes.

Monkeys love to eat bananas. Most monkeys live in the rainforests or savannas, on the ground, or in the trees. Monkeys are divided into many groups, such as gorillas and chimpanzees.

The giraffe is an animal with long legs, and it eats plants. When they are in the wild, they live less than 30 years. They can reach up to 5.7 meters in height, and they live in groups of around 40 giraffes.

The elephant is a big animal with a long trunk and ears; its color is gray, and it loves to eat tree bark. Mothers protect and welcome baby elephants.

The zebra is an animal with black and white stripes to confuse predators. It eats leaves and grass, and they love to run in the meadow.

The parrot is an animal of many colors. It has a black beak, its size is medium, and they are friendly birds. Generally, their body is medium, and they like to be around people.
