7th Grade O2 – Class of 2026

Christus Barão de Studart

In the morning, a boy called Oliver woke up very sleepy. "I needed to get ready for school." He said.

He was in a hurry! “I need to dress very fast.” He exclaimed.

First, he put his hat on his shoulders.

Then, he put his shoes on his hands.

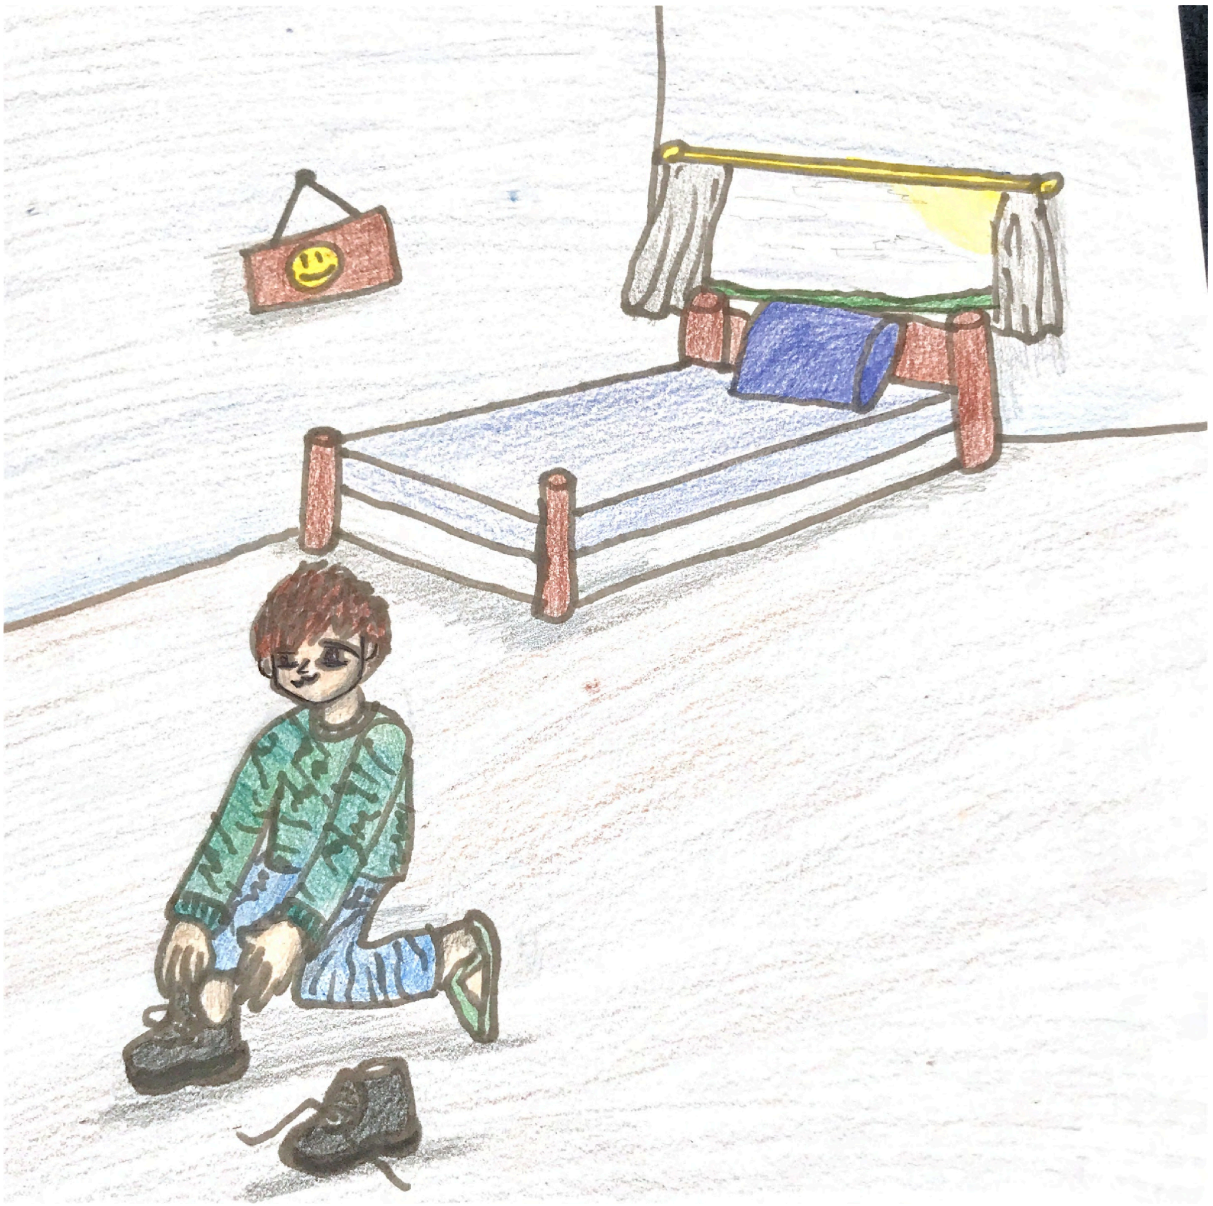

Next, he put his scarf on his arms.

His dad said: - No! The hat goes on your head.

His mom saw him and said: - Your shoes are in the wrong place! They go on your feet.

His sister looked at him and said: - The scarf goes on your neck!

Then, he was finally ready! "I'm ready! I'm ready!" He exclaimed. So, his parents took Oliver and his sister, Mia, to school.

In the morning, a boy named Oliver woke up feeling very sleepy. He needed to get ready for school very quickly. He did not put his clothes and accessories in the correct places. He put his hat on his shoulder, his shoes on his hands, and his scarf on his arms. His dad, his mom, and his sister pointed out that it was wrong and helped him correct it. Finally, he was ready and went to school.
